* Please note that the use of the words '100% capital protected' and 'protected' throughout this term sheet, refers only to the fact that 100% of your capital is protected on the Final Repayment Day. The quarterly return is not guaranteed. In the event of early withdrawal you may receive back less than your original capital amount..

Structure

- The Fund deposits a substantial amount of the invested capital with Credit Suisse (Bank) to purchase a zero coupon or fixed interest bond that matures at 100% of the investor's initial investment. The deposit amount will be determined by the bank depending on interest rates prevailing at the time.
- The balance of the investor's capital is used by Ganoz Asset Management Ltd (Ganoz) to trade currencies. The currency trades involve substantial leverage. Some assets may be held in cash equivalent money market securities.
- The quarterly return is dependent upon trading performance. Ganoz will set aside a discretionary amount of their performance fee to augment future quarterly returns in the event of a shortfall in trading profits in any quarter. If a shortfall still exists in any quarter after the profits that are set aside are exhausted, this shortfall will be carried forward and added to future quarterly payments due to the investor over the remaining term of the fund, subject to trading performance.

Strategy

The investment advisors have been developing technical trading strategies for over 20 years and have developed a proprietary technical trading strategy for trading selected currency pairs, which has a strong independently scrutinised track record. The strategy has been automated to remove human subjectivity. It is being enhanced constantly and can trade 24 hours a day in multiple currency pairs.

Only a small proportion of the invested capital (less than 20%, depending on interest rates) is made available for trading. The majority is held by Credit Suisse (Bank) in its function as the issuer of the zero coupon or fixed interest bond. Of the amount under the management of Ganoz, only a modest proportion (generally less than a third) is traded in the market at any time.

The balance of the assets not being used for forex trading may be used to buy and sell cash equivalent money market securities (for example: medium term notes, zero coupon or fixed interest bonds and money market bank debt instruments rated "A1/A+" or better), with the objective of providing capital growth and security.

The fund will pay the returns at the end of each quarter.

Liquidity

Early redemptions will be allowed on any dealing date, given 45 days notice in writing. There will be a penalty for early redemptions. The amount that will be paid out for an early redemption is the amount invested less a penalty charge of 19% at the end of the first quarter, reducing by 1% per quarter thereafter. In the unlikely event of a failure of the underlying investment strategy, the minimum early redemption amount would be the market value of the zero coupon or fixed interest bond.

Charges

There are no fixed charges to the Investor from the Investment Manager or Investment Adviser. They work only on a performance fee and do not get paid at all until after the fixed quarterly returns have been paid up to date and in full.

The Administrator & Custodian charge a fixed total of 0.45% per annum and these charges are paid by the Fund.

There is an entry charge of 1.5%. This charge is taken from the capital available for trading and does not affect your capital protection.

Key Risks

Credit risk

The Investor is reliant on the Administrator, Custodian and Broker (see the Prospectus definitions) to fulfil their obligations in respect of the product. The investor should consider the credit quality and technical competence of these parties before deciding to invest.

Should the underlying currency trading strategy or trading platform fail, the Administrator is dependent on the credit risk of the issuer of the zero coupon or fixed interest bond for the return of the 100% protected capital upon maturity. The quarterly payment is dependent on the success of the trading strategy, backed up by any profits of Ganoz that have been set aside.

The underlying investment should be considered as high risk and is only for the experienced and sophisticated investor who can afford the risk inherent in this type of investment.

Redemption

The Investor may be entitled to redeem his investment in the fund before maturity but he may not receive the full amount of his invested capital.

General risks

The value of the underlying risk investment will be influenced by complex and interrelated political, economic, financial and other factors that affect the currency markets generally. Ownership of the product exposes the investor to many different risks, including (without limitation) interest rate, foreign exchange, time value and/or political risks. Past performance does not guarantee or predict future performance.

Investors may also be exposed to foreign exchange risk, to the extent that they invest in products denominated in a currency other than their home currency.

This term sheet should be read in conjunction with the Fund Prospectus. Please refer to the "Risk Factors" section of the Prospectus.
